3- WAY SCHOLARSHIP MATCH APPLICATION

2016-2017

Applicants must reapply each semester

A 3-way scholarship is a plan whereby the student's family or students earnings, the student's church/concerned person(s), and Southwestern Adventist University funds help meet the student's expenses. This scholarship is intended to help students who, after applying for Federal/State grants and loans, and after consideration of expected earnings from work, are short of meeting University expenses.

It is the responsibility of the student to obtain a commitment from outside sources. Southwestern Adventist University will match these funds up to $500.00 after determining that the student qualifies for the SWAU match. Application for these funds does not mean automatic approval of the SWAU matching portion. If additional aid is received after the 3-way has been awarded causing an over-award on Federal Student Aid, adjustments will be made to the student's aid awards. This could include reduction in loan awards and/or loss of the SWAU 3-way match. This is a need-based scholarship and the following criteria are used to qualify the student:

- Student may not be a recipient of educational subsidy.
- Student must first apply for Federal/State grants and loans.
- Student has unmet expenses after all other aid and earnings from work.
- Student has unmet need as determined by the federal aid calculation
- SWAU match will not exceed the lower of the two committed amounts.
- Maximum match: $500.00
- Private dorm room disqualifies student.

SWAU Refund policy (required signature)

I understand that need-based scholarships are only intended to assist me with payment of this semester's expenses at SWAU. I accept the fact that this scholarship will be reduced, or deducted from my account, if there is a credit on my account at the end of the semester, a policy which will allow as many students as possible to afford a Christian education.
